Privacy Notice

At Computershare, we take privacy seriously. In the course of providing services to you in connection with employee stock purchase plans, dividend reinvestment plans, direct stock purchase plans, direct registration services and/or custody services, we receive nonpublic, personal information about you. We receive this information through transactions we perform for you, from enrollment forms, automatic debit forms, and through other communications with you in writing, electronically, and by telephone. We may also receive information about you by virtue of your transaction with affiliates of Computershare or other parties. This information may include your name, address (residential and mailing), social security number, bank account information, stock ownership information, date of birth, government-issued identification number, and other financial information.

With respect both to current and former customers, Computershare does not share nonpublic personal information with any non-affiliated third-party except as necessary to process a transaction, service your account or as required or permitted by law. Our affiliates and outside service providers with whom we share information are legally bound not to disclose the information in any manner, unless required or permitted by law or other governmental process. We strive to restrict access to your personal information to those employees who need to know the information to provide our services to you. Computershare maintains physical, electronic and procedural safeguards to protect your personal information.

Computershare realizes that you entrust us with confidential personal and financial information and we take that trust very seriously.

COST BASIS DISCLOSURE

IRS regulations require that Computershare and other brokers/agents provide additional information to you and to the IRS when you sell certain securities. If you sold or transferred shares/units and did not specify a cost basis calculation method we have defaulted to either the first in, first out (FIFO) for equity issuers or for certain closed-end funds, average cost basis method. All covered and noncovered information set forth in this document is for informational purposes. The information is based on data in our records as of the date of this mailing. Cost basis data may be subject to change based on events such as wash sales, splits and spinoffs. If cost basis data was not available, the information was left blank. Computershare cannot confirm the accuracy or completeness of your cost basis information. You should consult your tax advisor for more information.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem.

2. In the second part, we consider the case of a single particle. We show that the motion of a particle in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a particle in a uniform electric field. This result is obtained by a simple transformation of the equations of motion.

3. In the third part, we consider the case of a system of particles. We show that the motion of a system of particles in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a system of particles in a uniform electric field.

4. In the fourth part, we consider the case of a system of particles in a magnetic field. We show that the motion of a system of particles in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a system of particles in a uniform electric field.

5. In the fifth part, we consider the case of a system of particles in a magnetic field. We show that the motion of a system of particles in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a system of particles in a uniform electric field.

6. In the sixth part, we consider the case of a system of particles in a magnetic field. We show that the motion of a system of particles in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a system of particles in a uniform electric field.

7. In the seventh part, we consider the case of a system of particles in a magnetic field. We show that the motion of a system of particles in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a system of particles in a uniform electric field.

8. In the eighth part, we consider the case of a system of particles in a magnetic field. We show that the motion of a system of particles in a magnetic field is equivalent to the motion of a system of particles in a uniform electric field.
